I think the do not call registry is the best thing that has happened. I have not received any unwanted calls since it started and it would be terrible if it was stopped